

Broward Worker Loses Arm in On-The-Job Accident at North Lauderdale Sewage Pumping Station

Date: January 26, 2012 11:59 AM

Author: RBR Law

Source: Sun Sentinel

Tags: Miami injury lawyers, workplace injury attorneys, South Florida injury, workplace accident, on the job injury, injured worker, North Lauderdale, Broward County

Permalink: <http://bit.ly/z28Urq>

MIAMI, FL—A South Florida worker's arm was severed "about mid-wrist below his elbow" in an unfortunate on-the-job accident that occurred at a North Lauderdale sewage pumping station. According to information provided by the South Florida Sun Sentinel, North Lauderdale spokeswoman Jennifer Johnson said the victim—an unidentified man in his 40s—was airlifted to a Broward County hospital for treatment of his on-the-job injury.

Reports indicated a male worker employed by Butler National Services Inc. in Fort Lauderdale was working at North Lauderdale's Hampton Pines Park wastewater pumping station—located at 7800 Hamptons Boulevard—when somehow his arm was severed. Although details concerning the workplace accident itself remained scarce, city spokeswoman Jennifer Johnson told reporters the injured worker was transported to North Broward Medical Center for treatment.

As of Jan. 25, a representative at Butler National Services—a subsidiary of Kanas-based Butler National Corporation— was unaware of the injured worker's condition.

Officials from the Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) are expected to conduct a full probe into the horrific South Florida workplace accident.

About the Miami injury lawyers of Rossman, Baumberger, Rebozo, Spier & Connolly, P.A.

For more than three decades, the Miami workplace injury attorneys and construction accident lawyers of Rossman Baumberger Rebozo Spier & Connolly, P.A. have represented injured workers or the families of dead workers in nearly every conceivable kind of construction case, including some of South Florida's most significant accidents.

The South Florida injury law firm has fought on behalf of workers who were injured or killed from collapsed scaffolding, unguarded floors, balconies, boxes and girders, electrocutions, vehicle accidents, nail gun mishaps and other cases. The firm represents a family of a worker killed in the recent Bal Harbour condominium construction accident, which buried three workers in quick-drying cement.

The Miami personal injury law firm of Rossman Baumberger Rebozo Spier & Connolly, P.A. values its collaborative relationship with workers' compensation lawyers and other co-counsel, investigates cases thoroughly, and fights to protect safety in the workplace and hold wrongdoers accountable

Distributed by Viestly